Thirty-five instruments were assigned last Friday at the first Greenbelt band rehearsal, and Paul Garret, director, gave each band member a twenty minute lesson. Group instruction in the care and handling of the different instruments was also given. Ever since then the noise of determined practice upon flute, sax, and oboe has filled the air of many a Greenbelt neighborhood.

Last Tuesday evening the parents of band members met in the Auditorium to discuss a constitution and by-laws for a Parents' Board. An executive committee was also chosen.

SHOOTERS TO PARTICIPATE IN CAMP PERRY TRY-OUTS

On Sunday, July 21, a group of eight Greenbelt Gun Club members will participate in the Maryland State Rifle and Pistol Association Tournament at Camp Ritchie, 25 miles beyond Frederick, Maryland. Harry Bates, L. J. Bomberger, Harry Hesse, Don Kern, Norman Slater, Ben Rosenzweig, Clarence Wills, and Lyman Woodman will enter five different matches during the day, shooting the .30 calibre Service Springfield rifle at ranges of 200, 600, and 1,000 yards. This tournament is the elimination to determine the membership of the Maryland State Civilian Team to be sent at Government expense to the national matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, August 18 through September 7.

The shooting at Ritchie commences at 8:30 A.M. and will last all day. Gold medals will be awarded to the winners of the five individual matches which compose the tournament. The annual General Reckord Trophy will be given to the winner of Match No. 2, which consists of 10 shots at the standing, off-hand position and 10 shots rapid fire (1 minute) at the sitting position—both on the 200 yard range.

Greenbelters who may be inclined to take a Sunday trip on that day may be interested in visiting the competition at Ritchie. The drive is pleasant and there are visitors' eating accommodations at the Clubhouse on the lake within the camp area.

All persons who still owe money on their swimming passes are urged to pay the final installment before August 2, to avoid having them revoked.

Refugee Visitors Will Arrive In Greenbelt Monday

Fifteen refugee children, ranging in age from nine to twelve years will be welcomed by their Greenbelt foster-parents Monday evening. The young visitors will reach Beltsville by Greyhound bus late in the afternoon, and will be driven to Greenbelt by volunteer citizens.

The $35 raised by the July 3 Citizens Association dance is being used to pay for the children's transportation from and to New York. Extra money has been voted from the Citizens Association treasury to pay for the children's lunch and refreshments during their bus ride. Mildred Stadholz, of the division for social and cultural adjustment of the National Refugee Service, will accompany the group. Ethel H. Wise, also of the National Refugee Service, will take the children back to New York at the end of their two weeks' visit.

A meeting of the Refugee Vacation Committee and the prospective foster-parents will be held a few days before the visitors arrive so that plans can be completed for their entertainment. Roy Braden will distribute cards to the children which will admit them without charge to all Greenbelt's recreational facilities.

Holbrook Dairy Waits Answer On Injunction Hearing

A motion made by the Government in the Holbrook Farms injunction suit may result in an early determination of the question as to whether the Secretary of Agriculture's milk marketing agreement is applicable to milk distributors not engaged in interstate commerce.

Approximately six months ago the milk marketing agreement was entered into and, because it increased the price to be paid the producers, threatened to raise the price of milk for the consumer. Holbrook Farms Dairy filed suit for a permanent injunction against enforcement of this agreement, contending that the terms of the agreement to distributors engaged solely in intrastate commerce. The dairy also asked for a permanent injunction until a hearing on the suit for a permanent injunction could be held, and succeeded in obtaining the temporary injunction.

Inasmuch as District Court has adjourned until October and the temporary injunction remains in force until the case is reached on the regular calendar, the Department of Agriculture has filed a motion to have the case heard in the near future. It is expected that the court will decide today whether or not to advance the case for hearing.

The outcome of the injunction suit is of particular interest to members of the Milk Buyers Club, as that Club recently entered into an agreement with the dairy involved. However, as a member of the Milk Committee pointed out, an adverse decision will not affect the Club since its agreement is binding for one year and was entered into by the dairy with the knowledge that it might be unable to obtain a permanent injunction.

BEETLE TRAPS ARE PLACED IN POSITION

One hundred Japanese beetle traps arrived in town last Monday morning, and have been placed in strategic positions throughout our pest-beleagured community by Angus MacGregor. The traps will be shifted from time to time as the "catch" may dictate.

Purchased from Baltimore through the town's park and playground fund, the traps are baited with bran soaked in oil of geranium, according to Mr. MacGregor.

A careful record will be kept of the experiment with the hope of enlisting University of Maryland aid next year.

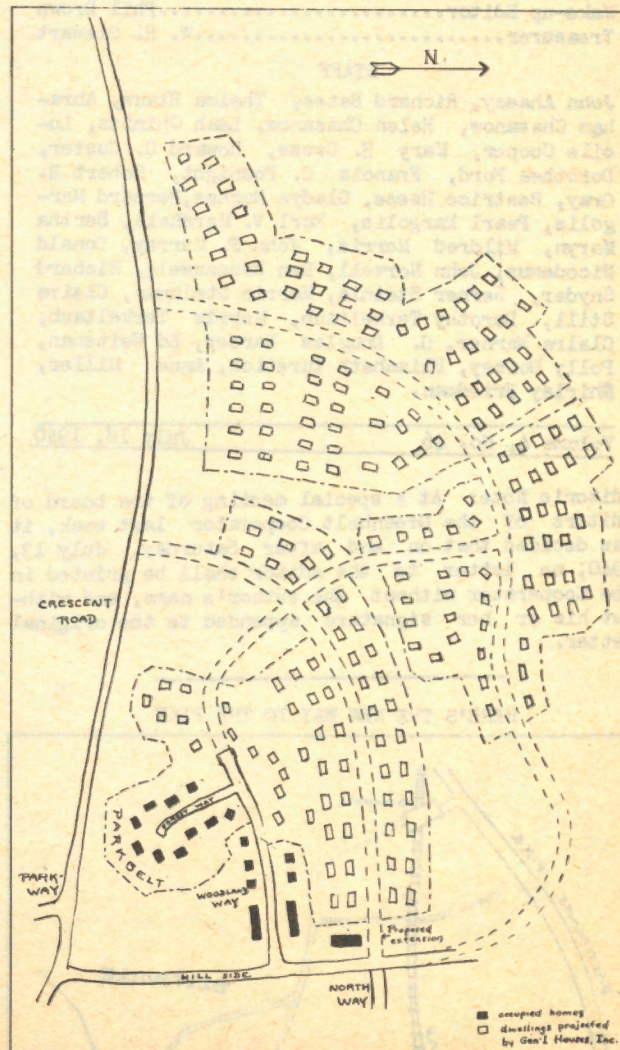

In two or three weeks the beetle grubs will be in the ground, and the hope in exterminating them there lies in the prowess of the female Korean wasp, especially imported a few years ago to this country to prey on the Japanese Beetle. This small, black, white-spotted wasp must lay her eggs in a Japanese beetle grub's nest, it seems. As the young wasp larva develops it feeds upon and destroys the beetle grub. In a few weeks, says Mr. MacGregor, you may notice this wasp hovering a short distance from the ground as she hunts for likely grub nests.

BOY SCOUTS TO HAVE WEEK ON CHESAPEAKE

This Sunday Greenbelt Boy Scout Troop No. 202 leaves for a week at Camp Roosevelt on the Chesapeake, two miles from Seaside. The boys will live in Indian tepees and do their own cooking. In charge of the troop are Scoutmaster Birtle, George Eshbaugh, and Alexander Schwarz.

PARKBELT AREA CHOSEN FOR HOME SITES

MAP OF PROPOSED HOUSING SITE

The Housing Committee has chosen the wooded site surrounding Parkbelt for the erection of its proposed community of low-cost houses, chairman Dayton Hull announced last week. This area was originally under option to General Houses, Inc. and was planned to accommodate 200 dwellings, as shown on the map by the empty squares. The roads which were planned to serve the settlement are dotted in. The housing committee plans to start building along an extension of Northway.

The tentative lay-out approved by the Farm Security Administration in 1937 provides for lots 70 by 125 feet, and it is the hope of the committee that this size will be retained.

While the housing group has given its approval to the basic type of house designed by David Humphrey and described in the last Cooperator, those who wish to do so are free to develop their own plans.

The next step to be taken by the housing committee will be to incorporate.

Mrs. Kelly Paid Tribute To Greenbelt

Blanche-Yvonne Kelly, wife of Joseph Kelly, a member of Greenbelt's operating staff since its inception, passed away Friday night, July 12.

Last year, after a banquet and entertainment for Greenbelt employees, Mrs. Kelly, who attended with Mr. Kelly, wrote a letter of appreciation to Roy S. Braden, from which the following paragraph is taken:

"May she (Greenbelt) continue to grow up with her present attributes and prove to the world, through her example, what evolution in thought can accomplish and how, humble, simple, honest and frugal living can attain dignity, serenity and beauty in a democracy which knows how to choose its government peaceably and wisely."

HEALTH ASSOCIATION TO SHOW MOVIES AT MEETING

The business scheduled for the July 24 quarterly membership meeting of the Health Association will include the nomination and election of a new board member to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Joseph L. O'Leary.

Reports from board members will include announcements of new activities of the Association to be inaugurated soon, according to Hugh A. Bone, president.

Movies, including the Greenbelt Newsreel on the Association, will be followed by a social hour with refreshments.

HERE'S THE NEW WAY TO THE PIKE

The road which will save Greenbelters approximately three miles on a trip to Baltimore will be completed in the next thirty days, according to E.L. Tarwater, engineer in charge of roads in the Beltsville Area for the Public Roads Administration. The bridge over Indian Creek is now complete, and the power shovel will next load gravel to be spread on the roadbed. The road will be allowed to "settle" for 12 months before a hard surface is applied.

Remembering that Route 1 is the prime reason for Prince Georges' abnormal number of traffic fatalities, residents of Greenbelt will do well to save themselves as little as three miles of driving on it.

PERSONALS

Visiting Mrs. Dorothy Terkeltaub are Mrs. Ethel Kaplan and her two daughters Marion, 4, and Helen 10, from New York.

Mrs. Sally Blackberg, from New York, is visiting her sisters Mrs. Ruth Weitsman and Mrs. Anne Grabel. Mrs. Blackberg's young son Edward accompanies his mother.

CONTRIBUTE TO RED CROSS

To the Editor:

Our office has been designated as the agency to solicit funds for the War Relief program which is being carried forward by the American Red Cross. There is nothing we can think of that is more worth while and deserving of our support. We do not know what the future may hold in store for us, but in these times of peace and plenty let us all show that we have a sympathetic understanding for the misfortunes of those people in war torn zones. We can do this by contributing something of our subsistence, and we therefore ask you to please do as much as you can to assist the Red Cross in the wonderful program they are sponsoring.

Please send or bring any contributions to Mr. W. F. Mabey, in the Administration building, where receipts will be given you for any contributions you may make, and this must be taken care of during the month of July.

We feel sure that Greenbelt will do its part for a real cause, and we hope when the final returns are in that we have done our part.

Thank you very much for your cooperation.

Town Manager

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED FOR RED CROSS SHOW

August 2 has been set by Mrs. Shirley Land for the Red Cross Benefit Variety Show. Director Land would like telephone calls from musicians, dancers, and singers who would be willing to offer their services and make the show a hit. In fact, to use Mrs. Land's very words, "Those who have talent in any direction" are invited to call Greenbelt 4721 to arrange for auditions.

The show will be given in the Auditorium at 8:15 P.M.

Community Health

By S. R. Berenberg, M.D., Director
Department of Public Health

How many citizens think of traffic regulations as matters of concern to and the responsibility of health departments and health conservation agencies? But pedestrian protection which means a decrease in the death rate of this country and the prevention of long painful illnesses or permanent crippling of thousands is definitely within the province of all those who are seeking to keep Americans healthy. When 12,500 pedestrians were killed in 1938 due to automobile accidents, many of which were preventable, the figures are staggering enough to make the most disinterested citizen, whether motorist or pedestrian, wonder what can be done to stop such a useless waste of life. Sixty-five per cent of the victims of all traffic accidents occurring in cities of 10,000 population, were pedestrians. The figures showed also, that 43.2 per cent of the number of pedestrians killed were people over 65 years of age. It is impossible to blame all these deaths upon careless drivers. Elderly people whose senses are less acute and small children whose sense of caution has not been developed, are menaces to the most careful driver. Caution must be exercised by both driver and pedestrian and protective measures must be taken to insure the safety of those whose judgment can not be relied on for adequate self-protection.

The carelessness of the old and young and middle-aged pedestrians in Greenbelt is a matter of great concern to the officials of the town and some of the more far-sighted citizens. The town planners have wisely looked ahead, envisioning a community with many small children and have constructed the pleasant winding paths and by-passes in order to prevent all likelihood of accidents.

A by-pass is merely a useless piece of decoration unless it is used. A very large proportion of our fellow citizens seem to regard them as ornaments only. In the interests of health if the sudden reform from jay-walking to use of the regular walks is too much of a shock, this Department would like to suggest as the first step to a permanent cure that all pedestrians walk on the left side of the road facing traffic. This turn of the tide of strollers would certainly relieve motorists of much nerve strain. After this prescription has been followed for a period of time, it might be possible for pedestrians gradually to accustom themselves to keeping to safe by-ways instead of the dangerous highways.

Meditations

by Robert Lee Kincheloe
Minister to the Greenbelt Community Church

Mr. Overstreet calls the following "A Brief Excursion Into Conversation."

"And now for a really crucial test for individuals. Let us listen to conversations. We may learn a great deal from them. Not about what is talked of, which is often quite unimportant, but about the persons who do the talking. For after all, as a man speaketh with his tongue, so is he.

"Do we find talk of this and that—the weather, to begin with; how charming the curtains are; did you know that the Chumleys have just returned from Europe; and weren't you horrified at the Smiths seeking a divorce; and, oh yes, Charles did say that he liked the sage-green dress immensely.....Conversations that rattle; that leap irrelevantly from one trifling matter another; gossiping conversations; conversations that simply keep going because the going is required; that start nowhere and get nowhere.

"There is a certain typical garrulousness, in short, a kind of endless talk of this, that, and the other thing. It does not make much difference what the particular thing is that is talked about, as long as the particular thing is there to fill up the silent spaces.

"What, after all, does particularistic garrulosity indicate but an inability to get to the deeper, more essential and wide-reaching qualities in life, an inability which marks the mind not yet grown to maturity?

"Contrast, now, this other type. There are a half-dozen persons sitting around together. There is laughter at times; a good deal of quiet smiling. But also a kind of brooding in the faces. 'No,' says one them, 'the thing goes farther down than that. People don't lie because they are bad or steal because they are vicious. Someday our system of punishment will first inquire about the early training and environment of the people it punishes.'

"We feel the difference, instantly. Here is a digging down to essentials. Here is thought. And for that reason, here, where two or three are gathered together, there is a something more than chatter in their midst.

"Not all talk, to be sure, must be deeply philosophical, serious. Laughter is by no means a foe of reason. Talk can be gay with humor. The flash of wit may add both brilliance and penetration. But whatever talk is, if it is to be worth the talking, it must go somewhere, and it must go in a direction that is worth taking."

DECADE

By Stephen Longstreet

This is the story of the last ten years of John Christian Rowlandson's life—from his eighty-eighth birthday till his death. This grand old man was affectionately called the "Old One", and he was a ribald, blasphemous old libertine who refused to save his fortune by unscrupulous methods. His son-in-law worked himself to death trying to save the business, but he failed. However, the "Old One" was still uncrushed when on his ninety-eighth birthday he had lost his last son, his favorite grandson had died in Spain, and his home was gone.

The crash of 1929 sounds the opening chord, the threatening thunders of the present war in Europe, its final. "Decade" is a story that is warm and vital and full of good humor. These ten years of brightness and darkness are displayed in a form which lends real interest.

THE REBEL IN ART

By Anne Arundel

PART II

When Charles Wilson Peale was 12 years old, Mrs. Peale took her brood of fatherless youngsters to Annapolis to live. Young John Beale Bordley was just beginning to practice law but he had other resources besides the returns from his work. Consequently he was able to give financial aid to the destitute family of the dear teacher whom he had revered. He gave the widow enough support to aid her during the first few months of adjustment as a widow. Gradually she began to achieve a modest independence as a seamstress. Before young Charles had celebrated his thirteenth birthday, his mother bound him over as an apprentice to a saddler. This apprenticeship was to last until Charles should be 21.

Annapolis in those days was living up to its name, the "Bath of America" as it had been christened by an European visitor. It was an exciting place for a boy to grow up. In the shop of "Nathan Waters, Saddler, From Philadelphia, at the house of Mr. Charles Wallace, Staymaker, opposite to Mr. James MacCubbin's Store, in Church Street, Annapolis", as an old record states, Charles worked for long hours, learning to handle tools skillfully and accurately. Saddle-making entailed leather cutting, some work with metals, wood-carving and joining. This training could provide but slight basis for later art studies. But as the years of youth dragged by and the boyish fingers had grown proficient enough to work automatically at such tasks, the apprenticeship grew irksome. Charles found time to do some extra work. With the money he earned he bought a watch and a horse. The watch was not very reliable. Charles spent five shillings to repair it. Still the watch did not keep time accurately. So Charles decided to experiment himself. He never succeeded in repairing the watch as he wished but he had stumbled upon a hobby which brought him much pleasure, and some money, when he was in financial difficulties. He had so much self-confidence in his ability that he permitted himself to advertise as a watch-maker in later years.

The horse enabled him to visit plantations and make friends outside of the city. When he was 17 he rode out to visit a friend beyond the South River. He met 14-year old Rachel Brewer and promptly fell in love with her. Charles never wasted a moment in life. He immediately asked her mother for permission to pay his attention to Rachel until he could be released from his apprenticeship and be in a position to marry. He must have been an engaging lad for Rachel's mother gave him permission to court her daughter. Neither Charles nor her mother told Rachel the reason for his frequent visits. One Sunday when Rachel was still only 15 years old, Charles declared his love for her. He burst out suddenly with such fervent protestations that Rachel was speechless with amazement. Charles misinterpreted her silence. He thought she was refusing him. He rushed from the house, flung himself onto his horse and went riding madly off to propose to another young lady whom he knew. Fortunately the second young woman was already betrothed and had more poise in dismissing Peale. According to Peale's quaint autobiography, written in the third person; "...This courtship did not take more than one hour from the beginning to the end of it, and it has been said that this lady was afterward unhappily married. He now applied again closely to his work, having lost all his spare time in a fruitless courtship." So Peale went back to the saddlery business a sadder but apparently not a wiser young man.

VOLUME 4 NUMBER 24

The need for more leaders who actually have something on the ball besides a keen desire for fame is very great in Greenbelt, not because we have few such leaders, but because we have many organizations needing such leaders. Few, if any, communities can boast of such a high per cent of capable community workers, but fewer still can boast of so many organizations of a strictly down-to-business nature. Such organizations as the Citizens Association, Athletic Club, the Church groups, as well as the Credit Union, the Health Association, the Milk Buying Club, the Consumers Services, the Hospital Auxiliary, and the Cooperator, all require astute, level headed, imaginative, energetic leadership—and that means more than a good executive officer; it means the whole executive board or committee. Everyone of these groups is doing—and not badly, either, on the whole—the kinds of work that businesses would hire big paid big shots to do.

For better or for worse Greenbelt is committed to this ambitious program. Ordinary groups of mortals would have said it couldn't be done, and perhaps we would have been wiser to take one thing at a time. But we visualized an ideal Greenbelt, and we have launched the program which we think leads toward that ideal. And we had confidence in our ability to do our own leading; we did not sell the capabilities of the average man short, as do so many people.

And although we have enough demonstrated ability and determination on the part of our present community workers to give us plenty of hope for the future of their basic organizations, there is undoubtedly a great need for more workers and fresh ideas. It is a great opportunity, too. I can testify, personally that the practical experience gained by participating in these enterprises is of great personal value, assuming of course that one really participates. Greenbelt does more than shelter people; it develops them, or rather it gives them the chance to develop themselves.

The burden of all this is: if you are not already participating in the growth of Greenbelt, won't you offer your services to that activity which interests you most? A community that is built by all its citizens is the community that has the happiest citizens. Surely such a community has the happiest future, too.

— Howard C. Custer

GREENBELT SENDS DELEGATES TO STATE P. T. A. CONFERENCE

Greenbelt's delegate to the recent State Parent-Teacher Conference at the University of Maryland was Mrs. S. Hartford Downs, recent president of the Greenbelt P.-T.A. Mrs. Mary Jane Kinzer, Mrs. Ruth Corder, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Mrs. Leon Benefiel and Mrs. Donald Trehwella also attended several sessions.

On the opening day of the conference, Mrs. Stanley G. Cook, of Indian Head, state program chairman, praised Greenbelt's school and community health set-up as one which every town in the state would do well to pattern after. At a luncheon meeting the following day, Mrs. Ruth Taylor's program report was held up as a model to other P.-T.A. program committee chairmen. During the Wednesday session Mrs. Ross Coppage, state membership chairman, called upon Mrs. Downs to explain Greenbelt's non-competitive system of increasing P.-T.A. membership. She reported that instead of spurring on the children to see which room can get the best turnout of parents at a meeting, the Greenbelt membership committee tries to interest each parent in the P.-T.A. as valuable in itself to both children and parents. At the beginning of the year an open letter is sent to each parent, and throughout the year the children are given an advance program of each monthly meeting to take home. P.-T.A. members also make calls upon non-members to explain the workings of the association.

At the close of the conference on Friday, Mrs. Downs took delegates from four nearby P.-T.A. locals for a sightseeing trip around Greenbelt.

One of the highlights of the conference was Dr. Harold Benjamin's speech, "What high schools can do to help make Democracy work". He recommended, among other things, that parents study the high school curriculum to see that it is not dominated by subjects which "Mrs. Astor" might wish her children taught, but which are utterly useless to most young people. Dr. Benjamin is dean of education at the University of Maryland.

NO MARYLAND SCHOOLS CLOSED

Mrs. Coppage praised Maryland as "the only State in which not a school was closed and not a teacher's salary was cut during the depression." She warned that "even though we are spending billions for defense, we must not allow our legislators to forget or neglect education."

Mental hygiene clinics for children in Maryland were advocated by Lavinia Engle of the Social Security Board. She said it was not "spoiled children" who have been repressed."

"If you fail to provide adequate recreational facilities, you will pay for it in jails, prisons and penitentiaries", Mrs. Arthur C. Watkins, former field secretary of the National P.-T.A. asserted.

49 PER CENT HAVE BEGUN TO DRINK

Approximately 49 per cent of high school seniors in this country already have begun to drink, Roy Breg, secretary of Allied Youth told the delegates.

Reporting for the Committee on Study of the Effects of Alcohol, Mr. Breg called liquor "one of America's major problems."

by F. Kirby

I watched them tearing a building down
A gang of men in a busy town
With a High Ho Ho and a lusty yell
They swung a beam and a side wall fell.
I turned to the foreman "Are these men skilled
And the kind of men you would hire if you were to build?"

And he laughed and said, "No indeed, just common labor is all I need"

"I can easily wreck in a day or two
What skilled men have taken a year to do."
And I thought to myself as I went my way
Which of these two roles am I trying to play,
Am I measuring each deed with the rule and square

Or am I going about town

Content with the labor of tearing down.

"Paddy the Cope", by Patrick Gallagher, issued last year by Jonathan Cape, London, tells the story of the difficulties encountered by a pioneer Irish cooperative manager.

"Cope" is "cooperator", as shortened by Paddy's neighbors in Cleendra.

CURTAIN HINTS

When buying materials for curtains, if you are not sure of the proper length for your windows, there are three lengths most generally accepted as correct. Curtains should be long enough to touch the sill, to come to the bottom of the apron or to reach the floor.

When measuring, be sure to allow amply for a generous bottom hem, top hem for the curtain rod, and heading, if you wish one.

WITH THE REPS

By John Murray

(Editors note): When Murray was questioned as to the results of Wednesday's game in the Middle Atlantic Tourney all he did was growl. When asked for an account of the 7-3 loss suffered by the Reps, at the hands of Dixie Tavern a wild gleam came into his eye and we wisely refrained from further interrogations.

Reps 3

Carr Bros. 2

For the first time this season the Reps took the measure of Carr-Bros.-Boswell on the local diamond, but not until they had unveiled two new local stars. The battery of Marack and Bowman are the men of the week for their performances, which amounted to the difference between victory and defeat for the locals. Marack pitched a creditable 9 hit 2 run job, but he didn't assume his hero role until the last inning. He came to bat with one man on the paths, two out, and Greenbelt trailing 2-1. His bingle was enough to tie up the ball game, but not content with that, he moved around into scoring position by heady base running. Bowman then connected for his third hit of the day to put Marack on third, and with Sanchez up, he set sail for home on a slow peg from the catcher. He arrived safely in a cloud of dust with the winning run to end the game. R. Frey, pitching for the opposition, held the Reps to five hits with the use of a slow 'nothing' ball. Bowman got three of these and Marack and Goldfaden supplied the others.

Reps 7

Business Men 3

On Saturday night the Reps entertained the community Business men of Hyattsville, and handed them a 7-3 lacing behind the one hit pitching of Curt Barker. A newcomer named Bradford pitched for the visitors, and put forth a good performance, but with a shaky fielding team behind him and Barker at his best against him he had very little chance.

Bauer and Goldfaden furnished the offensive sparks with their 2-3's and Ray Taylors' triple and Petersens' double aiding the cause considerably.

REPS TENNIS TEAM WINS

On Sunday, the Rep tennis team had it's first scare of the season when an underated Interior Department team extended them before succumbing 4-2. Bill Blanchard, local top man had his hands more than full with a chap named Bulloda, and lost a bitter 9-7, 6-4 duel, while Murray wilted fast under the pressure supplied by Moore to lose 6-1, 6-1. Two wins in singles matches, and a clean sweep of the doubles saved the day, and the Greenbelt team stays on top of the league with a record of 15 wins and 3 losses. Next Sunday they take their first road trip to Whitintide. The results: Bulloda (Int) defeated Blanchard 9-7, 6-4. Goldfaden (G) defeated Murata 9-7, 6-3. Moore (Int) defeated Murray 6-1, 6-1. Skinner (G) defeated Eickmann 6-3, 6-4. Schoeb-Plackett (G) beat Fleischer-Forbes 6-3, 6-0. Blanchard-Goldfaden (G) defeated Davidson-Zimmerman 6-0, 6-0.

The Reps only effort next week-end will be against the Census Bureau team at 3:00 P.M. Saturday. No game for Saturday night or Sunday has been scheduled so far.

Athletic Club Ahaesy Comments

If the first week's play of the Greenbelt Athletic Club's second half softball league is to be a criterion, then the fans are in for some swell games.

To start things off with a bang the Badgers upset the pregame dope, and shellacked the Jokers 7 to 2. Eddie Trumbule was in rare form and pitched an inspired game. In the second game of the evening the Dodgers continued their hot pace and set the Pirates down 19 to 16.

Tuesday, July 9, found the Braves and Cubs doing battle. This game was a nip and tuck affair throughout and was one of the best played games staged this season. The Braves finally showed their superior strength and copped this one 5 to 4. In the other game the Deuces vanquished the Esquires 15-7.

Wednesday, July 10, the Aces proved they intended to give an account of themselves in this half by defeating the Clubs in a close one 10 to 9. The Pirates were unable to put a team on the field so forfeited this one to the Braves.

Thursday, July 11, the Dodgers copped their second win of the week when they walloped the Giants 16 to 7. The second game between the Jokers and the Deuces was postponed and will be played at a later date.

Friday, July 12 the Esquires bounced back from their earlier defeat and scored a 6 to 0 shut out over the Aces. In the second game the Braves defeated the Giants 12 to 6 to jump in to the league lead. This was the Braves third win of the week.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

Eddie Trumbule's fine pitching. He struck out the mighty Goldfaden twice and made him pop up his other time at bat. This is some sort of a record...

"Pop" Widger's antics at first base during the Badger-Jokers game. He's Greenbelt's Nick Altrock...

Harry Merryman's spills at first base. He should be more careful, 'cause he's not playing for gold...

Bob Thompson's home runs. Everytime he comes to the plate the player move back to the bushes, and for good reason, because he really lays the wood on that old apple.

Don't forget to save your old newspapers for the clubhouse. Bring them up to the field with you when you come up to see the games. Thanks.

The play off for the first half championship between the Badgers and Jokers will be staged Saturday night at 8:00 P.M. This should be a thriller. The first half play off between the Dodgers and the Braves is scheduled for July 26, at 6:15 P.M.

Shamrocks Even Score With Capitol Cafe 6-3

Drub Hillcrest A. C. 13-6

The Greenbelt Shamrocks gained sweet revenge last Saturday afternoon when they defeated the Capitol Cafe nine on the local diamond by a 6 to 2 count. Ernie Boggs, local twirler, set the visitors down with only one hit, a triple by Wrenn in the seventh inning, as he struck out eight and walked none. The local lads, paced by Thompson and Moore, blasted out a total of 13 hits, and scored three times in the first inning, enough runs to win the game. Each team made four errors.

On Sunday, the Shamrocks scored their twelfth victory when they vanquished a poor Hillcrest A.C. nine by a one-sided score of 13 to 6. Pounding two Hillcrest pitchers for 21 hits, five for extra bases, Greenbelt scored twice in the first on McDonald's home run, five times in the second, twice in the third, and thrice in the fifth. By the seventh inning the boys were tired and didn't try to score again. Therrell with a perfect 4 for 4, Holochwest and McDonald led the locals attack. Beardmore was leading batsman for the losers with 3 for 5.

Caseys Lead Sunday School League

A recount has to be made of last week's standings. An ardent L.D.S. participant unearthed an early victory of the Saints over the Holy Name boys which had not been included. Any more of you boys got a victory up your sleeve?

We hate to say it but the Blues really have the Blues, again failing to put a team on the field for Saturday's matinee against L.D.S. We have to give the Saints this one on a forfeit. In the twilight affair the Reds paraded Shaffer, Halley and Reamy to the mound in a frantic effort to stop a hardhitting bunch of Jitterbugs. Schulze, Helfund, and Lewis hit homers. And Brother, there was some talk of "ringers".

Sunday we had a couple football scores, Caseys taking the Stragglers 17-6, and the Jewish Community Center thumping Holy Name 15-2. Boys, this league is getting tough!

SWIMMING POOL NOTES

NEW SWIMMING CLASSES TO BEGIN MONDAY, JULY 22nd.

New Swimming Classes will begin at the Greenbelt pool on Monday, July 22nd. Registration for these classes will be Friday, July 19th at 9:30 in the morning. Miss Dungan urges all candidates for classes to register at this time so that the classes may start promptly on Monday morning. There will be classes for beginners, intermediates, swimmers, Junior Life Savers, and divers. The women will continue their beginners and advanced classes at 11 A.M. on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Any woman wishing to join this group may do so.

This is the second group of classes to start this year. The first group will complete the requirements for Red Cross Certificates this week. The certificates will be awarded at the time of the Water Pageant, the latter part of the month.

CHILDREN TO HAVE SWIMMING MEET

There will be a swimming meet for children Saturday morning, July 20th. Each child who has been taking lessons will have a chance to enter several races and games with other swimmers of his ability and age. The meet will also be open to other children who have not been taking lessons. Medals will be awarded the winners.

All entries should sign for their events on the bulletin board in the lobby of the pool.

SWIMMERS STILL NEEDED FOR WATER PAGEANT

The water pageant which is to be held the latter part of this month still needs good swimmers. Any one wishing to take part should watch the bulletin board for notice of rehearsals, or contact Miss Dungan at the pool in the mornings. The Pageant will be at night. There will be swimming, diving, water stunts, comic dives, and floating formations.

SENIOR LIFE SAVING CLASSES START

A group of men and women started working for their Senior Life Saving last week. The class will meet Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays, at 5:30 P.M. The requirements for this course are: To be able to swim 220 yards using the crawl, side stroke, back stroke, and breast stroke in good form; to execute a plain dive in good form; tread water; float on the back; and surface dive swimming two body lengths under water.

WOMEN ELIGIBLE FOR CO-OP TRAINING PROGRAM

It does not generally require the threat of war to force cooperatives to make their training schools co-educational. But the highly specialized course in Cooperative Food Store Operation was designed especially for prospective male employees of co-op grocery stores; and it wasn't until co-op executives realized that many of the present co-op managers and employees are young men subject to war service if war comes, that they decided to open the course to young women.

According to present plans the Council for Cooperative Business training, will accept up to ten young women in its course on Food Store Management to open in New York September 30. The twelve-week training program will combine theoretical training with "internship" in cooperative stores in various stages of development for six of the twelve weeks. The course will include instruction in food facts, distribution, store management, bookkeeping, cooperative history and principles, survey of cooperative enterprise, public speaking and public relations. In selecting students, preference will be given to young men and women with grocery store experience or extensive knowledge of the cooperative movement.

The Council for Cooperative Business Training with offices at 420 Lexington Ave., New York, is financed by the Goodwill Fund established by the late Edward A. Filene, and is composed of representatives of Rochdale Institute, Consumer Distribution Corporation and Eastern Cooperative Wholesale.

RURAL AND INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE CANCELLED

War conditions which have suddenly intensified have forced St. Francis Xavier University to cancel its annual Rural and Industrial Conference and to request the cancellation of the Fourth Annual Conference Tour of the Nova Scotia Cooperatives, the Co-operative League of the United States of America announced recently.

The Rural and Industrial Conference usually draws a thousand miners, farmers and fishermen to Antigonish each year to report on the progress of the adult education movement and the organization of cooperatives in the Maritime Provinces. The Conference Tour of the Nova Scotia Cooperatives was sponsored by the Co-operative League in cooperation with the Extension Division of St. Francis Xavier University. During the last four years about five hundred educators, churchmen, farm, labor and cooperative leaders have studied the Nova Scotia Cooperatives as members of the tour.

STATE RE-EXAMINES CRASH DRIVERS

From now until August 10, motorists involved in "reportable" accidents will receive summonses for reexaminations by the commissioner of motor vehicles.

Motor Vehicle Commissioner W. Lee Elgin took such action, he said, to reduce the number of accidents, which statistics prove, are numerous at this time of the year.

Police departments throughout the State have been instructed to report drivers involved in all accidents, regardless of whether anyone was injured.

Drivers will be summoned to appear either at county offices or at headquarters here for reexaminations. They will be given an eye test and examination on motor vehicle laws, Elgin explained. Some, he added, might be given driving tests.

The 94-degree temperature last Thursday made it the year's hottest day.
